CANNABIS

THE NEW BURNING BUSH

Hawaii's Marijuana Minister Behind Bars

"Then God said I give you every seed-bearing plant on the face of the whole earth, and every tree that has fruit in it."

Genesis 1:29-30

In a land founded on religious freedoms, Hawaii's ordained and licensed Marijuana Minister, Roger Christie, has been sitting in prison without bail for more than a year preaching the Bill of Rights' First amendment and praying for a miracle.

Founder of The Hawaii Cannabis Ministry, commonly known as the "THC Ministry," Christie had been practicing out of a store front in Hilo, Hawaii for 10 years when his church and home were raided by Federal Agents last year...

His credentials to preach were acquired from the Universal Life Church, Inc. in 1972. Among his clerical documents is a license to marry, granted by the State of Hawaii in 2000. In Christie's hand, penned under "Denomination or Sect" clearly declares, "Cannabis Sacrament." Sacrament meaning anointing oil used in marriage ceremonies, and herb for smoking, which is also considered a spiritual rite by the Ministry.

In March of 2010, 13 of Christie's THC Ministry followers were arrested by Federal officers and charged with manufacturing and distributing Cannabis in amounts well over Hawaii's own seven plants per acre ordinance.

That said, there were never any ordinances governing the THC Ministry, as it is not a Medical Cannabis Dispensary or Collective, nor is Christie a Medical Cannabis patient. His strong and firm belief is that Cannabis is a plant of God and he joins those before him, historically using it for both spirituality and subsequent wellness.

Christie said he immediately informed authorities members were providing Sacrament exclusively for the congregation, by donation only. The refusal of the Federal Government to acknowledge Christie's church as a legitimate entity prompted them to brand him a danger to the community, arresting and him and taking him into custody without bail, without visitors, and myriad trial postponements to date. A big part of his practice is based on using a Sacred Anointment Oil in marriage ceremonies, with a universal belief in the bud that's as old as, well, the bud itself.

Vancouver Writer and Publisher Chris Bennett, author "Cannabis and the Soma Solution" (Forbidden Fruit Publishing), said Jesus Christ and his apostles may have used a high potency Cannabis-based anointing oil referred to as "kaneh-bosem." He said the use of this high-potency oil, which is well documented in archaeological records, was used during religious ceremonies in healing the sick and mentally ill, with ancient anointed ones literally drenched in the potent mixture.

"The first solid evidence of the Hebrew use of cannabis was established in a joint with KA, and take a few pics of the progress on Tuesday - a tradition that would be repeated each week until harvest. I arrived about 4pm, and by the time we walked down to the garden it was 4:20, so we fired up a "hog leg" of Cheese, and KA made these signs.

Want to see just a spectacular place to get high and talk about life?

Now that the roots are established, I expect these things to go crazy over the next few weeks. I am not sure he's left enough room!

July 28th was my third visit to, by now, my favorite place on the planet to contemplate life. This was a real learning visit, and I got to actually watch the installation of the wire cages that will help support the lower buds once they add weight and start drooping due to gravity. The plants are cleaned up at this time by removing any of the lower "sucker" shoots allowing the plant to get better air flow and, in theory, the energy wasted on these lower branches will be diverted upward to the main colas. The remaining lower branches are carefully weaved through the wire cages, opening the plant for more sunlight and better air flow.

Before we got started, we enjoyed some nice hits of some indoor Jacks Cleaner - a Sativa - to give us some morning energy and reduce some of the pain that Dave deals with every day. Dave makes a stern general as he commands everyone around the garden to help with each plant, getting them secured just like he wants them.

You can see the plants are already starting to take-off, but you're going to be shocked when you see our next update! Look out for "The Garden of Weeden: Part 2" in the next issue of Weed World!

In our next article you will see giant plants forming, cannabis-loving cows, the erection of the covering tent and the first bud shots!

Stay Tuned, Subcool.

an outdoor garden personally, so I was really looking forward to my first photo shoot at the ODC.

This was a learning experience for me each time I visited and I will try and pass on what I learned.

These are the strains in the garden:

- Agent Orange
- Black Domina
- Blueberry
- Bubba Kush
- California Orange
- Cheese
- Chocolate Chunk
- Dannyboy
- Great White Shark
- Proud Mary
- Purple Kush
- Romulan
- Snodawg
- Space Queen
- Jack the Ripper
- Jacks Cleaner 2

The plants are being transplanted throughout the garden and foliar fed with vulvic acid, which helps the plant uptake nitrogen through the root base. Dave is a true believer in hot vulvic and humic acids and uses them throughout the growing season.

I did not get a chance to return to Weeden for almost 2 weeks (12 days to be exact). I expected the plants to be larger to be honest, getting full unobstructed sunshine every day, but Dave explained that most of the energy was going to establish the root base first.

Now, I want to tell you about "Sportster's Bucket". "Sportster's Bucket" honors a good friend of ours, that makes his way up at harvest and, sitting on the bucket, helps Dave process mountains of medicine. With him in mind, we feature his bucket at each visit. It's a tease, but it's all in good fun.

I decided to get out and get some late sunshine and fresh air and go smoke

CANNABIS TRAINING UNIVERSITY

The Cannabis Training University (CTU) was developed to provide quality and comprehensive medical marijuana education to students across the globe. No longer must students travel to California to get cutting edge information and instruction on this always controversial industry. The online Medical Marijuana Education series offered by CTU seems to be the most advanced and complete offered online.

The team at CTU includes some of the most recognized and knowledgeable members of the medical cannabis community worldwide. Their experts include: attorneys, accountants, horticulturists, insurance agents, dispensary managers, point of sale software companies, cannabis chefs, and cannabusiness owners and vendors.

The CTU headquarters are in San Francisco, CA, which provides us access to leading members of the medical marijuana industry.

This is an exciting time for the medical marijuana industry. Never before has marijuana been such a hot topic across the United States and around the globe. Each year there is more and more documented and anecdotal evidence of the medical benefits of marijuana. Patients around the world are reporting improvements in condition and significant reduction in pain as a result of using marijuana as an alternative treatment to traditional pharmaceutical drugs.

The economic impact and pot tax revenue that the industry can generate are both staggering. As the medical marijuana industry continues to evolve, the need for quality education will increase as well.

Our team here at Cannabis Training University is the most comprehensive and up-to-date online medical marijuana education available. No longer do students need to travel to California to receive quality education on medical marijuana. We've helped CTU bring this information to students no matter where they live. Our success, which is completely satisfied with our courses is our number one priority.

We thank you for your continued support and for helping make Cannabis Training University world leader in online medical marijuana education.

Sincerely,
Mathew Green, CFO.
