AutoNight Queen

Dutch Passion Auto Kush wins Highlife 2016

By Tony, Dutch Passion Seed Company, Amsterdam

Dutch Passion's 1st Prize in the 2016 Highlife Cup with AutoNight Queen confirms what a lot of auto growers already knew - autos are just as good as photoperiod varieties for quality-focused home growers.

AutoNight Queen grows from seed to harvest in 70 days, she is usually grown indoors under 20 hours of daily light and the original Afghani Kush genetics produce the same potency as a top quality traditional variety. Autos really have become an easy way for the home grower to produce their own championship-quality cannabis no matter how small their budget and grow space. One unusual feature of the indica AutoNight Queen is the very low plant height, it's an ideal variety for anyone with limited grow space and restricted vertical height in their growing area.

As any experienced indica grower will tell you, size really is not everything. Some of the best indica genetic lines produce small, bushy plants. These genetics may not overgrow your indoor tent in the same way that a leggy sativa can, but if you are growing exclusively for quality then sometimes it's difficult to beat a proven indica prizewinner.
